

My name: _____

Title of my book: _____

Author: _____

True Facts !

Non-fiction books tell us real facts about people, animals, places and things.

One reason for reading non-fiction books is to get more information about a subject.

What subject would you like to know more about? _____

Write three questions you have about this subject.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Read a non-fiction book on your subject.

Write the answers to your questions on the lines below.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

HINT: If you did not find the answers to your questions, you may need to look in another non-fiction book on this subject.

Now write two more facts you learned about this subject.

1. _____
2. _____

My name: _____

Title of my book: _____

Author: _____

Check Your Mail!

You have just received an email from the main character in your book. This character tells you about the main events in the story and asks what you liked the best.

Write the email below. Remember to address the letter to yourself and to sign it with the character's name.

From: _____

Sent: _____

To: _____

Subject: _____

Dear

Yours truly,

My name: _____

Title of my book: _____

Author: _____

Memory Page

Make a memory page of your book.

In the center, draw a picture of the main character.

In the boxes, draw a picture of an important event.

Write one good sentence about each event.

My name: _____

Title of my book: _____

Author: _____

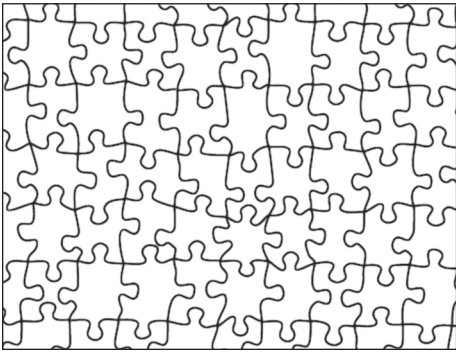

Why Did They Do It?

Who is the main character in your story? _____

Think about four important events in this story when the main character had to take action.

Write the events in the chart. Then tell why the character acted that way.

What happened	Why the character acted this way
1.
2.
3.
4.

My name: _____

Title of my book: _____

Author: _____

Solving the Problem

Every story has a problem that the main character has to solve. Sometimes other characters help the main character find a solution.

Who is the main character in your story? _____

Who are the other characters?

Complete the following:

1. The biggest problem the characters had to solve in this book was:

2. The characters solved this problem by:

3. Think of another way that the characters could have solved their problem. Write about your solution.

My name: _____

Title of my book: _____

Author: _____

Going! Going! Gone!

Before you read the book, look at the title, cover and read the clues about the story.

Write what you think the story is going to be about.

When you reach the middle of your story, answer these questions.

1. What has happened so far?

2. What do you think will happen next?

When you reach the middle of your story, answer these questions.

1. What is the best part of this story? Tell why you picked this part.

2. Would you tell a friend to read this book? Why?
