

Changing Traits

In any book, characters face events that can change their perspective or how they act in certain situations. In Animal Farm, there are several characters whose traits become fully realized as the story progresses. Use this organizer to choose a character and discuss various events and the changes those events evoked in that character.

Altering History

In George Orwell's 1984, it is said that who controls the past, controls the future. That same idea can be applied to Animal Farm in some respects. In several instances, the pigs rewrite the past in order to influence how the other animals react to their present and future decisions. Use this organizer to list some of the times history was rewritten to suit the will of Napoleon and the pigs.

I: Whatever goes upon two legs is an enemy

II: Whatever goes upon four legs, or has wings, is a friend

III: No animal shall wear clothes

IV: No animal shall sleep in a bed

V: No animal shall drink alcohol

Foreshadowing Farm

Almost from the outset, there are signs that things might not go as the animals suspect once they take over The Manor Farm. Even though the animals are in charge, there are lots of other factors at play. Use this organizer to discuss some of the instances of foreshadowing that can be found within Animal Farm and how they influenced perceptions going forward.
