Roald Dahl (1916-1990)

Roald Dahl is regarded as one of the finest children's authors in the English language.

Many of his novels, such as Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, Danny the Champion of the World and James and the Giant Peach are now classics of this genre.

Shortly before his death the top five selling children's books in Great Britain were all authored by Dahl. Matilda is one of his most original and finest creations - one of the few Dahl stories which feature a female protagonist.

Roald Dahl was born in Llandaff, Wales, in 1916 to Norwegian immigrants. When his father died, Roald was only four years old, yet despite this tragic event, Roald claimed his childhood to be happy and eventful. Roald was not a particularly good student, but he was a very good athlete.

When World War II broke out he joined the Royal Air Force and was badly injured when he crashed his fighter plane during a dangerous mission.

Dahl married the actress Patricia Neal in 1953. Together they had five children but were divorced after thirty years of marriage. He began his writing career as a short story writer, and didn't write his first children's novel until 1961 - James and the Giant Peach. This was followed by several bestsellers, including Matilda (1988) - one of his last books.

Roald Dahl passed away in 1990 at the age of 74. In Great Britain, the anniversary of Dahl's birthday on 13 September has recently become widely celebrated as Roald Dahl Day.

Did You Know?

- Roald served as a fighter pilot in the Royal Air Force during World War II.
- Roald was good friends with President Franklin Roosevelt and his wife Eleanor.
- The Gremlins (1943) was his first children's book and was published Walt Disney - The Gremlins.

 - _____ e) Bruce Bogtrotter is accused of stealing a slice of Trunchbull's chocolate cake.
 - _____ f) Bruce cuts into the cake and eats his first slice.

Chapter Eleven to Twelve

Part B

Answer each question with a complete sentence.

1. Do you believe that Bruce stole the piece of cake? Do you have any evidence to support your answer?

2. What responsibility was Lavender given for Trunchbull's first visit to their classroom?

3. Which two students inspired Lavender to come up with her brilliant plot?

4. Describe what Lavender did to get back at Trunchbull.

5. What had Rupert Entwistle told Lavender about newts? Do you believe this to be true?

6. Predict what you think will happen next.

Journal Activity

Imagine you are Lavender. Just before Miss Trunchbull joins her class, Miss Honey gives the students an opportunity to make an entry in their personal journals. What might Lavender write in her journal at that moment?

Chapters 9 to 12: A Comic Strip

This activity is especially for students with an artistic flair or who love comic books! It can be done for events included in Chapters 9 – 12, or from Chapters 1 to 12. The first step is to decide on the length of your comic strip (6 to 12 frames is suggested); next consider what events you will include. You may wish to highlight a brief incident (i.e. Trunchbull forcing Bruce Bogtrotter to eat the chocolate cake), or encompass the highlights of the novel to this point. You may even want to provide an alternate ending to your scene.

A quick sketch of the comic strip can first be accomplished in a storyboard format before a final, good copy is attempted. The strip should include a title, dialog, and color. It should be neat and imaginative.

Chapters 13 to 16: Poor Old Newt

Lavender plays a rather successful trick on Miss Trunchbull in this section – at the expense not only of the headmistress, but a poor, innocent newt as well. Fortunately for both creatures they end up none the worse for wear – the newt being returned to his home in the pond at the end of the day.

In the whole adventure of the newt we don't really learn whether this little creature might in fact make for a good pet. Perhaps one day in the future every family will wish to have a newt for a household pet – who knows?

Your task is to do an investigation of the newt. From your research uncover five interesting things about this delightful and misunderstood little fellow. As a concluding statement, determine (in your opinion) whether it would make for a good household pet – and why you came to that conclusion.
