Kinds of Governments

When we study the countries of the world we find that each one has some kind of government. The government of a country is the person or group of people who makes the rules or laws for everyone else. Governments can be set up in many different ways.

Governments set limits for the people. The first job of a government is to protect the people's rights. If there were no government, people could say and do anything they wished. This would be called anarchy.

The laws of a government tell how much power the ruler or leader has. These laws should also insure that all the people are treated in a fair and respectful manner.

STOP What do you think? In an anarchy, people can do or say anything they wish to another person. Do you think this would be a good situation? Why or why not?

There are about 200 different countries in the world. Not all of them have the same type of government. Here are some of the main kinds of governments:

GOVERNMENT	HOW IT WORKS
Absolute monarchy	- Total rule by one person who makes all the laws for all the people - Usually, the ruler is called a king or queen - Only a few nations in the world have absolute monarchies
Constitutional monarchy	- A form of government where the power of the ruler or monarch is limited by law - The government is usually made up of representatives elected by the people - There are many constitutional monarchies today
Dictatorship	- A country whose leader rules with absolute power, usually by force - Some dictatorships still exist today
Direct democracy	- A system of government in which all the citizens take part in suggesting and making the laws - The ancient city-state of Athens in Greece is a good example of a direct democracy
Representative democracy	- A system of government in which voters choose representatives to act in their interests - The United States is an example of a modern representative democracy
Anarchy	- Exists when there is no government present in a country - The people can do or say anything they wish to anyone

2. Use the terms in the list to complete the sentences.

direct democracy dictatorship absolute monarchy
anarchy representative democracy constitutional monarchy

Many years ago, people would often settle near each other. As a group of people grew larger, they began to see the need for government. The rules or laws they made told what kind of government they would have. If there were no rules or laws, the group was in a state of a _____. Sometimes, one person took all of the power. This person often ruled by force and told all the people what to do. This type of government is a _____. In other groups, all power was given to a ruler who was often called a king. This type of government is an _____ c _____.

Governments can be as different as the people they serve. In some groups, every person has a direct voice in all of the decisions. This type of government is called a d _____. Some groups chose to have a king or queen, but also chose to have a voice in their government. This type of government is called a e _____. A government which has spokespeople to tell the wishes of the people is called a f _____.

Kinds of Governments

Here are six writing tasks about the government of the United States. Be sure to think about all that you have learned about the United States government as you write. Write your answers in complete sentences in your notebook.

Task #1 Every country on earth has some kind of government even though all governments are not alike. Organize your thoughts and knowledge about government and discuss the purpose(s) of government. In the United States' system of government, who or what are most important?

Task #2 The Constitution of the United States has a very important purpose for its government. What is that purpose? What is the Constitution sometimes called?

Task #3 The Declaration of Independence states that all citizens have certain rights. What are three of these rights? What document gives the citizens these and other rights?

Task #4 Rights always come along with responsibilities. Think about the rights you discussed in Writing Task 3 as well as others. Discuss at least one of the responsibilities that comes along with them.

Task #5 All countries have problems which must be solved. Some of these problems are so serious that they are present in most countries (for example, poverty). If you were president of the United States, which three problems would you try to solve? What would you do to solve them?

Task #6 The powers of all three branches of the U.S. government are equal. What document limits the powers of each branch? What is this limiting of powers called? Do you think that these limitations are good or bad? Tell why.
